

Emory's Student Employee of the Year Congratulations to Kryn Dykema

National Student Employment Week is April 8-14, 2018 Colleges and universities across the country recognize the importance of the student work experience and honor students this week.

Student supervisors presented nominations for Student Employee of the Year as part of the national celebration. Out of the many student employees nominated, Kryn Dykema has been chosen as our 2018 Emory Student Employee of the Year. Kryn is a junior at the Emory College of Arts and Sciences. He is employed as a Climate & Energy Intern for the Office of Sustainability Initiatives. Kryn has proved to be an invaluable member in the department of Sustainability Initiatives because of his hard work and resourcefulness. To quote his supervisor, Taylor Spicer, "Kryn holds invaluable insight and a level of commitment to this program that we do not always see in interns."

Kryn Dykema, BA Class of 2019

2017-2018 Emory Student Employee of the Year

"Having the opportunity to work in the Office of Sustainability Initiatives has been one of the most rewarding experiences I have had at Emory. The positive, encouraging personality of the Office and the important work every member of the team completes is impactful and inspiring at every level. As a student employee I have been able to build relationships and connections across departments, disciplines, student positions, faculty relations, and staff operations. The Office of Sustainability Initiatives has provided countless opportunities to develop educationally and professionally, and to make real-world changes towards a more sustainable future."

Student employees are an integral part of the Emory Community and bring exceptional talents to our work environments. Without part-time student employees many departments would find it difficult to meet mission critical goals.

National Student Employment Week is a perfect time to recognize and celebrate the contributions our student employees make throughout the year. Please join the Office of Financial Aid in presenting our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all of our students who work across the University and with our community partners.
